

The Longleaf Alliance's Longleaf Academy: Longleaf 101

The Longleaf Alliance offers a three day short-course called Longleaf 101, an in-depth classroom and field instruction in “all things longleaf”. The intent is to better prepare landowners and natural resource professionals to address management problems specific to longleaf forests and to create a uniformly well-informed network of longleaf managers to extend the reach of The Longleaf Alliance.

Topics include:

- The history of longleaf pine.
- The use of fire in longleaf ecosystems.
- Artificial regeneration, including site selection, seedling quality, site preparation, planting and release techniques.
- Natural regeneration systems.
- Stand management.
- Wildlife management.
- Understory restoration.
- Diseases and insect identification.
- Economics, products, and available resources and materials.

Who should attend? Private landowners, federal and state agency personnel, nursery representatives, and private natural resource professionals throughout the longleaf natural range.

Date: April 5 (0800) - April 7 (1200), 2016

Location: Craven County Extension Center
300 Industrial Dr., New Bern, NC 28562

Total Cost: Only 30 spots available for this academy. Register Early. Cost includes registration fee, materials, and lunches Tuesday and Wednesday.

$125 for Private Landowners. NO CFEs provided at this rate.

$200 for Non-landowners. CFEs are provided at this rate.

To Register:

Email Casey White at Office@longleafalliance.org

Sponsored by:
The Dobbs Foundation

A block of rooms are reserved at The Hampton Inn in New Bern, NC.